

Anna Zaleski Mori, Senior Manager, United Nations Global Compact
New York, United States of America

Anna Zaleski Mori works for the United Nations Global Compact (UNGC), a United Nations initiative committed to encouraging businesses and organizations worldwide to embrace sustainable and socially responsible policies while transparently reporting on their implementation.

In her capacity as Senior Manager of the initiative aimed at advancing a just transition within supply chains, Anna is responsible for crafting innovative investment and business platforms that drive sustainability and inclusivity for underserved SMEs. This mission is accomplished through strategic partnerships with corporations, government agencies, and local networks.

Anna's extensive career journey includes noteworthy contributions to the field of international development and Human rights. Prior to joining the UNGC, she served as the Head of Partnerships for Gender Equality at the International Trade Centre, an agency of the United Nations and the World Trade Organization based in Geneva, Switzerland. Throughout her career, she has held various influential positions in business development for multinational corporations across the United States (The North Face), Brazil (Renault S/A), and China (Minght Ltd.).

Anna is a passionate advocate for human rights and inclusive trade practices. Her academic achievements include a Master's degree in Economics & Sustainable Development from the Université de Lyon in France and a Bachelor's degree in International Relations from the University of Curitiba in Brazil.